We need to avoid the distractions posed by populist, heavily-funded, or otherwise well-funded campaigns to block or otherwise impede the continued technological and economic advance of the online sector.” A video is the creation of multiple video channels, comprised of multiple video elements that are played in a sequential fashion. The video is created by combining video, typically recorded from live or pre-recorded sources, with a graphical overlay that may or may not include dialogue, text, still images, video effects, and/or music or other audio. The graphical overlay may have a playback time that may or may not be synchronized with the content of the video itself, depending on the duration of the content. Video, which has been the most popular source of online entertainment since the invention of
